

Is God a Delusion?

Is it rational to believe in God? And if so what is the evidence for Christianity?

Can you think of someone you can bring along to this? →

Free Event - 7-9pm - 18th June
William Lane Craig
Bethlehem Community Church Centre - 183 Moffat Rd

In this talk Dr William Lane Craig examines the question 'Is faith in God rational?'. He will present some of the evidence that suggests that the God of the bible is the most reasonable and rational explanation for the universe and the existence of mankind.

Dr Craig holds two PhD's, one in Philosophy and another in Systematic Theology. He has authored or co-authored over 30 books and speaks throughout the world on the reasonableness of the Christian faith.

He is a warm, fascinating speaker who has a special ability to communicate complex issues in easy to understand ways. A question and answer time after his presentation will give you an opportunity to ask the hard questions about God and the Christian faith. So come along and be challenged!

A free-will offering will be taken at the event to recover some costs.

Bonus Event:

Christian Apologetics: Who Needs It?

Why should we care about the intellectual challenges facing the Christian faith?

Free Event - 1-3pm - 18th June
William Lane Craig
Bethlehem Community Church Centre - 183 Moffat Rd

The word Apologetics comes from the Greek word 'apologia' which means to speak in defence. Come along to hear Dr William Lane Craig, considered by many to be one of the finest Christian minds today, speak frankly on the importance of making an intellectual defence - an apologia - for the Christian faith in a culture which views faith as increasingly irrational and irrelevant.
